An act relating to youth services.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL’S DIGEST

SB 803, as introduced, DeSaulnier. California youth leadership: youth advocacy.

Existing law establishes various programs to advocate for the needs of seniors and other groups, including the Senior Legislature.

This bill would state the intent of the Legislature to amend this bill to enact legislation that would establish the California Youth Leadership Fund and the California Youth Leadership Project to advocate for the needs of youth.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. (a) The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(1) The needs of California’s youths can best be assessed by California’s youths.

(2) There are over 9,000,000 youths under 19 years of age in California, and an additional 3,000,000 more young adults between 18 and 24 years of age.

(3) All young people need five key developmental resources in order to become productive citizens: caring adults, safe places, a healthy start, an effective education, and opportunities to help others. Young people who receive more of these developmental resources fare better than young people who receive fewer, and those young people are more likely to avoid violence, contribute to their communities, and achieve high grades in school. A significant number of California’s youths live disadvantaged lives. Of those youths, an estimated 200,000 minors and thousands more youths 18 to 24 years of age experience homelessness each year. Another 80,000 youths are in the foster care system, over 2,500 youths in California currently occupy juvenile justice facilities, and more than 3,000 youths are on parole from those facilities. Youths who are homeless, in the juvenile justice system, or in foster care have limited opportunities to participate in the policy process that ultimately impacts their well-being.

(4) There are limited civic engagement opportunities for disconnected and disadvantaged youths, especially opportunities developed and designed for and with them in mind.

(5) It is alarming that hundreds of thousands of California’s youths are among the two-thirds of America’s children and youth recently identified by the America’s Promise Alliance as not receiving sufficient developmental resources to safely put them on the path to adulthood. It is also concerning that the high school completion rate is less than 60 percent for low-income students and students of color in California, that gang and youth violence continue to be a concern, and, although birth rates to teen mothers have decreased, that teen pregnancy and parenting continues to be a significant social problem in California. It is encouraging, however, that research indicates that providing more of the five developmental resources for more young people can help prevent many of these problems, and that millions of dollars in later prison, health, and welfare costs can be avoided by providing more developmental resources for more young people now.

(6) America’s Promise Alliance has called for greater collaboration and integration in working to turn failure into action and improve the lives of young people at risk. More than 20 states have committed their state resources for the creation of statewide entities charged with improving the developmental well-being of their children and youth.

(b) It is the intent of the Legislature to amend this act to enact legislation that would establish the California Youth Leadership
Fund and the California Youth Leadership Project to advocate for the needs of youth.
